Fund portrait

The RÜCKLAGENFONDS invests globally in high-quality bonds with short maturities. The USP: The fund exploits opportunities and market anomalies in order to achieve an additional return compared to traditional money market funds and short-dated bond funds. Active risk management of currency and interest rate risks rounds off the strategy. The aim of the fund is to achieve a return equivalent to the money market interest rate + 1% p.a. with a low fluctuation margin. The RÜCKLAGENFONDS is suitable as a defensive portfolio component with high earnings potential, an attractive alternative to money market funds from an investment period of 1 year and as a stable base for entering and exiting the capital market.

Market commentary

On April 2, Donald Trump declared a trade war on the rest of the world on a big stage. Although this should have come as no surprise to anyone, the financial markets initially plummeted. Even US government bonds, which were otherwise still considered the safest of all havens for frightened investors during panic attacks, came under heavy pressure, as demonstrated by the almost historic rise in yields on 30-year bonds by half a percentage point and the euro's gains against the US dollar within a few days.

By the end of the month, several tightenings, extensions and partial withdrawals of the announced tariffs later, the mood had already brightened considerably. The more conciliatory rhetoric of the US government following the drastic reaction of the bond market also gave hope. The realization that it was in a precarious fiscal situation and was also dependent on foreign capital led (for the time being!) to a renunciation of further grandstanding.

The yield premiums for investment grade corporate bonds showed a clear upward trend with the newly emerging economic risks, which slowed the performance of the Rücklagenfonds somewhat. On the other hand, falling yields, particularly at the short end of maturity, compensated for this well thanks to the renewed stronger interest rate cut fantasy.

In the Rücklagenfonds, we carried out various transactions in bonds with only a short remaining maturity during the month and shifted into bonds with lower credit risk and better secondary market liquidity. The higher level of risk premiums offered us favorable opportunities in April. Despite all the market turbulence, the Rücklagenfonds showed negligible unit price fluctuations in April and closed the month with a clearly positive result.

Have we already described the advantages of "short-duration bonds" in turbulent times?

Performance in 12-months-periods

Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. All performance assumes a reinvestment of the distributions and an investment amount of 1,000 EUR and comprises twelve months each. The values marked with an * refer to a shorter period of time (since launch). Net performance: In addition to all costs incurred in the fund, the respective issue charge is also taken into account. This is deducted from the investment amount at the beginning of the performance period presented. The redemption charge, if such a discount is levied, will be deducted when the fund units are returned. Any custody fee that may be incurred that reduces performance is not taken into account. Gross performance: Corresponds to the net value development, but does not take into account an issue charge.

This is a marketing communication. Please read the sales prospectus (in German) and the key information document (in German) before making a final investment decision. The basis for the purchase is formed by the applicable sales documents, which contain detailed information on the individual risks associated with the investment. The net asset value of investment funds is subject to fluctuations to differing degrees, and is no guarantee that the investment objectives will be achieved. There is the risk that the investor will suffer a financial loss as a result of the investment acquired.

By acquiring the investment acquired, the investor merely acquires units in a fund and not the underlying assets of the fund, e.g. a building or shares in a company.

Performance is calculated using the BVI method (in German). Information on the precise method of performance calculation can be found in German on the Internet under Description of methods of calculation.

Future performance is subject to taxation. This is dependent on the personal situation of the respective investor and can change in future.

Total fund assets refer to the fund assets of all unit classes belonging to the fund. Total fund assets are shown in the currency of the unit class that was issued first.

The ongoing costs shown (total cost ratio) were incurred in the last financial year of the fund; for new funds, this is an estimate for the first financial year. The costs incurred can fluctuate from year to year and reduce the investor's earnings prospects. Further information on costs and any performance-based remuneration and its composition can be found in the key investor information.

No performance-based remuneration is charged.

Any percentages indicated in the investment structures or asset breakdowns shown generally relate to the total fund assets. Only a subset of the asset types is used as a basis in each case for the presentation of individual structures (e.g. for industries, only the share of equities), with the result that a total of 100% is not necessarily achieved.

The top securities (if indicated) are presented for a maximum of 60% of fund assets.

The figures shown are rounded, hence the totalled values can deviate from 100%.

The cut-off time refers to the daily close of order acceptance by the fund's depository bank. This is typically earlier for the investor's custodian office.
